Cub Master Corner

Part of being a good citizen is pitching in to make things better for others. Often problems can seem overwhelming, and scouts may think they are too young or too insignificant to make a difference. Consider this tale about the starfish:

One morning an elderly man was walking along a beach and saw a younger man in the distance who appeared to be dancing in the sand. As the older man got closer he saw that the young man was not dancing, but was picking up starfish from the beach and throwing them back into the sea. As the older man came upon the younger man he asked, "Young man, what are you doing?" The young man turned to the older man and said, "Well, you see, the sun is up and the tide is out and if these starfish do not get back into the sea they will die." "But young fellow," the older man said, "Look ahead of you. There are miles and miles of beach and thousands of starfish. You can't possibly make a difference." The young man looked at the older man and then looked at the starfish in his hand. He gently tossed the starfish into the sea and then turned to the older man and said, "Well, sir, I can make a difference to that one."
